

MRS. M. V. TERHUNE DIES IN NEW YORK

Author and Lecturer Wrote
Under Pen Name of "Marion Harland."

NATIVE OF VIRGINIA

Sister of Colonel G. Percy
Hawes and Late S. H.
Hawes.

Mrs. Mary Virginia Terhune, author and lecturer, who wrote under the nom de plume of "Marion Harland," died at her home in New York City last night after a short illness. She was 92 years old and had been in failing health for some time. Although she wrote a number of novels, she was perhaps best known as the author of numerous cook books and volumes on etiquette. She was a native of Virginia and was the wife of the late Rev. Edward Terhune, whom she married in 1856, and who died in 1907. She was the mother of Christine Terhune Herriek, with whom she collaborated in "The National Cook Book," Virginia Terhune Vandewater, with whom she collaborated in "Every Day Etiquette," and Albert Payson Terhune, the writer, all of whom are authors of recognized ability. Mrs. Terhune was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel P. Hawes of Richmond. A brother, Colonel G. Percy Hawes, Confederate veteran and prominent business man, survives. Another brother, S. H. Hawes, president of S. H. Hawes & Co., died February 19 last. She was an aunt of Miss Katherine H. Hawes, of Glinter Park.

15-MINUTE SPEAKERS TALK TO ADVERTISER

Irving Greentree and W. A. Clarke, Jr., on Program of Richmond Club Wednesday.

F. B. Howard, chairman of the program committee for the Richmond Advertising Club's weekly luncheons, announces two fifteen-minute speakers for next Wednesday at 12:55 o'clock in the auditorium of the Y. W. C. A. Irving Greentree, vice-president of the club, will speak on "Advertising a Store's Personality," and W. A. Clarke, Jr., secretary of the Retail Merchants' Association, will speak on "How to Meet Chain Store Competition."

This will be the second meeting held in the auditorium of the Y. W. C. A. and it is urged that every member be present. President R. E. Hutter, Jr., says the program will be one of the best "brass tacks" programs yet given.

3 PETITION SUPREME COURT FOR ERROR WRIT

Patrick County Man Appeals From Decision of Tribunal Which Sentenced Him.

Nassie Reynolds, of Patrick County, and London Campbell, of Danville, each appealed to the Supreme Court of Appeals from decisions of the courts of their respective communities yesterday, as a matter of right, and asked that the lower courts be reversed in the matter of fines imposed for alleged violations of the prohibition laws.

Grover Reynolds appealed from the decision of the Circuit Court of Patrick County, which sentenced him to eight years in the State penitentiary for the murder of Roy Mitchell. It is charged that during an important stage of the trial the defendant was absent from the courtroom, and it is contended that, under the laws of the State, the presence of a defendant is necessary at all stages of the hearings.

LYNCHBURG COLLEGE CLOSES BEST SESSION

Has Made a Notable Record
During Nineteen Years of Existence.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
LYNCHBURG, VA., June 3.—Lynchburg College closes, on June 7, the nineteenth session of its existence. Although one of the youngest institutions of the State in point of years, this college has made a notable record for itself, rising to the rank of a senior college, with graduates numbering close to 200. The present session has been one of the most successful, judging from the progress made, in number of students, in scholarship, and in the building program.

The college enrolls now 200 students, from Virginia, North Carolina, Maryland, Tennessee, and neighboring States. It has a faculty of twenty, holding degrees from the leading universities of the North and of the South. No changes will occur in the faculty for the coming session, except the addition of an instructor in biology, and the return of Professor Herbert Leland Hughes, who has been on leave of absence at the University of Virginia, studying for an advanced degree. Professor Hughes will return as head of the department of English.

Endowment Increased.
The endowment of the Hill City College will be increased to $600,000, within three years, by action of the district conventions of the Disciples of Christ, at Richmond and at Baltimore, during the past month. Lynchburg College is also to receive the sum of $25,000 for current expenses from the same sources. This will materially add the college in its work and permit of expansion in many lines.

The largest single factor in the growth of the college during the present session comes from the subscription of the city of Lynchburg to a memorial gymnasium, the gift of the city to Lynchburg College. The sum of $75,000 was subscribed by citizens for this purpose, and building will start this summer. The entire work will be finished during the coming session, it is expected. The campaign for funds for the gymnasium has long been apparent, and the welfare of the student body will be promoted by means of it, and the high rank that Lynchburg College has in athletics will be better sustained.

Supported by Church.
The growth of the college within the past few years may be largely attributed to the support given by the church, to its own fine record, and, in no small degree, to the work of President J. T. T. Hundley. The campaign for funds for the gymnasium was put through by his help; the support of the church has been gained by his efforts; and under him it may be expected that Lynchburg College will make even more progress in the future.

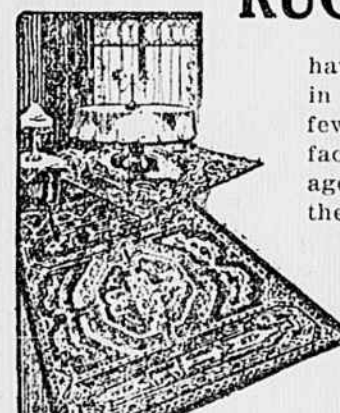

Alumni Day, June 6, has been added to the program of commencement in order to supply a demand for an intercollegiate baseball game, and to give sufficient opportunity to the returning alumni to see the graduates and undergraduates. The baseball game will be against Roanoke College, the traditional enemy of Lynchburg College. This is scheduled for 3:30 in the afternoon. That evening the alumni will have a garden party, and addresses will be made by prominent alumni, including Calum Jones, of Richmond.

The graduating exercises will take place Wednesday, June 7, at 10 A. M. The valedictory will be delivered by Miss Lois Evans, of Edinburg, Va. The salutatorian is Miss Helen Rod-abush, of Shenandoah, Va. Other speakers on the program will be T. W. Cox, of Millboro, Va., who also won high honors; F. H. Crews, president of the class.
